

THE NEW HEART OF THE REGION

Construction work on the new Maroochy City Centre is set to continue through 2017.

The development of Maroochydhore's new CBD is set to surge forward in 2017 after the completion of the first phase of work on the 53-hectare site.

More than 100,000 tonnes of earth has been moved and 18 kilometres of electrical conduits have been laid in the opening stage of the transformation of the former Horton Park Golf Course into the Sunshine Coast's new urban heart.

SunCentral Maroochydhore CEO John Knaggs applauded contractors Shadforth Civil Contractors and Cardno for their professionalism in undertaking the early stage works and design.

"The transformation of the site has been impressive and the outline of the first stage of the future CBD's streets, plots, parks and waterways is now clearly visible," he says.

Sunshine Coast-based Shadforths has completed the physical work on site, while Cardno has acted as the project's principal engineering consultant.

Early next year, will see the start of civil engineering works on Stage 1 of the site, including road-building and the laying of underground infrastructure.
